Seasoned Investment Management Veteran Paul Johnson Joins KAM South Advisory Board

ATLANTA (September 27, 2011) – KAM South (kamsouth.com) announces today that Paul Johnson has joined the firm's Advisory Board.

“I am extremely grateful and thrilled to have Paul available to provide his investment tilts and guidance in the current market environment,” said Christian G. Koch, President of KAM South. “Paul is an exceptional long-term investor, outstanding fundamental stock picker and brings a proven track record of investment success in both up and down markets.”

Paul Johnson founded Nicusa Capital, a fundamentally-driven, value-oriented, long-short hedge fund, in January 2003 and has more than 25 years of experience as an investment professional. As an Adjunct Professor of Finance at the Graduate School of Business, Columbia University, Paul has taught 20 courses since 1992 on securities analysis and value investing to more than 600 students. His course material is online at www.CAPatColumbia.com.

Mr. Johnson is co-author of the best-selling book, The Gorilla Game, Picking Winners in High Technology, which reached Business Week's best-seller list and was the number one best-selling investment book on Amazon.com for several weeks in 1998. Mr. Johnson has an MBA in Finance from the Executive Program at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, and a B.A. in Economics from the University of California, Berkeley.

Mr. Koch and Mr. Johnson have always shared a passion and vision for long-term value investing that includes disciplined hands-on equity research in the form of individual stock selection for building customized portfolios.
